A NOTE FROM THE DIRECTOR

---

Hello Lifelong Learners,

Last year when we were putting together the spring semester catalog, we never could have imagined how nearly every aspect of the world would change due to a novel virus that has since caused many across the world to lose their lives. Stay at home orders came into place and Osher at Towson University, like many other programs and organizations, worked to adapt as quickly as possible. At the time, we didn't know how long these changes would be in affect. We were all hoping we could resume normal activities in a few weeks. While that wasn't the case, we were almost certain that by this spring semester we would be back in the classroom enjoying learning together again side by side.

Things don't always happen as we expect. After the past year we've had, that is a huge understatement. One thing that we did expect, however, was that our Osher community would be strong, stay curious, and would continue to adapt. We were absolutely right about that!

Our spring 2021 semester will be held fully online via Zoom and the Osher staff will continue to work remotely while our offices remain closed. Thank you for your willingness to try online learning, your patience with any technical glitches that are bound to happen now and then, and your joy of learning that makes it all worth doing. We miss seeing you in person (this is not an understatement!) and while we aren't able to make predictions about the future, we look forward to providing great courses and lectures online this spring—and in the classroom, when that day comes.

Stay safe and healthy,

Tracy Jacobs

ABOUT OSHER AT TOWSON UNIVERSITY

HISTORY AND MISSION

Founded in 1999 with its first home in the historic Auburn House on the Towson University campus, the Auburn Society became the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at Towson University in the summer of 2006 when it was awarded its first grant from the Bernard Osher Foundation. Osher is part of the university's Division of Strategic Partnerships and Applied Research (SPAR).

The mission of Osher is to offer adults, age 50 and better, opportunities for continued learning along with programs and activities for social and cultural enrichment. The basic concept of the organization is that learning is a life-long process and is enhanced in a congenial atmosphere with others who share a love of learning. There are no educational prerequisites for membership and no grades or credits are given.

Osher is a self-funded, membership organization, endowed by the Bernard Osher Foundation since 2009. Its programs and activities are planned and carried out by staff and member volunteers through committees. These committees include: curriculum, outreach/membership, social/hospitality, art exhibit, philanthropy, and classroom facilitation.

In addition to the fall and spring semesters, Osher offers winter and summer lecture series.

ARTS, CULTURE & HUMANITIES

MUSIC THAT TELLS STORIES

Jonathan Palevsky

Sessions I and II

Tuesday, 9:30 a.m. (begins on March 2)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

In the music biz we call it program music...as opposed to abstract music. The idea of using music to tell stories or reflect extra musical ideas is as old as music itself. We have examples from each and every period and style from Renaissance to modern. Music has been used to depict the weather, the four elements, historical events (especially battles!) and mythological events. From Vivaldi's Four Seasons to Richard's Strauss' Tone Poems to Stravinsky's Fireworks and Firebird, composers have used their music to portray things greater than the music itself. Come and spend a few weeks enjoying this combination of sound and story...signifying just about everything.

Jonathan Palevsky, B.M., M.M., is program director for WBJC. His undergraduate studies focused on musicology and his graduate work at Baltimore's Peabody Institute on instrumental training in classical guitar performance. Jonathan can be heard as host of Face the Music, Past Masters, WBJC Opera Fest and regular afternoon classical programming on WBJC. He also hosts Cinema Sundays at the Charles Theater. Jonathan has been a regular of the Osher faculty since the former Auburn Society's first semester in spring 1999.

THE GREAT SAXOPHONISTS

Seth Kibel

Sessions I and II

Monday, 11:00 a.m. (begins on March 1)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

Discover the music and lives of the greatest practitioners of jazz's favorite instrument—the saxophone. Explore the lives and careers of Frankie Trumbauer, Coleman Hawkins, Lester Young, Ben Webster, Charlie Parker, John Coltrane, Sonny Rollins, and more. Recordings, video excerpts, and live performances from the instructor will keep these lectures lively and interesting.

Seth Kibel is one of the mid-Atlantic's premier woodwind specialists, working with some of the best bands in klezmer, jazz, swing, and more. Wowing audiences on saxophone, clarinet, and flute, Seth has made a name for himself in the Washington/Baltimore region, and beyond. He is the featured performer with The Alexandria Klezmet, Bay Jazz Project, Music PilgrimTrio, The Natty Beaux, and more. Winner of 28 Washington Area Music Awards (Wammies), including "Best World Music Instrumentalist" (2003-11) and "Best Jazz Instrumentalist" (2005, 2007-8, 2011-14).

THE COLLABORATIVE WORLD OF SONGWRITER JULE STYNE

Julie Kurzava

Sessions I and II

Thursday, 9:30 a.m. (begins on March 4)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

While less known than some of his contemporaries, songwriter Julie Styne's 50 year career spans the history of the American songbook and beyond, eventually writing over 1,500 songs. While Styne began his career playing in house bands in 1920s Chicago speakeasies, he went on to write songs for classic Hollywood films and Frank Sinatra, followed by hit Broadway musicals for Carol Channing, Judy Holliday, Ethel Merman and Barbra Streisand. While this course will explore the trajectory of Styne's career, Julie Kurzava will also elaborate and expand upon the world he inhabited, including his musical collaborators such as lyricists Betty Comden and Adolph Green, a young Stephen Sondheim, and the great singers who made his work iconic.

Julie Kurzava is a versatile singer, actor and writer who has performed professionally throughout the mid-Atlantic, at venues as varied as the Columbia Orchestra, Germano's Cabaret, Olney Theatre, the Maryland Renaissance Festival, and the Annapolis Opera. Julie is executive director of New Moon Theater, a non-profit touring theater and opera company for young audiences. Julie is a popular lecturer on American Musical Theater and the American Songbook at lifelong learning centers throughout the region, including the Peabody Conservatory Elderhostel program. She has been a faculty member at Loyola University Maryland and is a graduate of Northwestern University (BM) and the Peabody Conservatory (MM) in voice performance.

Wednesday, 1:00 p.m. (begins on April 7)

Fee: $65

In their multifaceted roles as singers, composers, actresses, activists and philanthropists, their accomplishments have been extraordinary. We will be deliciously edu-tained by highlights of their musical careers spanning more than fifty years. How did they break into show business and what personal attributes have taken them to the top? You'll delight in their memorable performances from TV, film and Broadway. Enjoy Streisand performing "People," "The Way We Were," "Yentl" and "Hello Dolly." Spring 2021 classes will meet online via Zoom

EIGHT MORE PLAYS EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW

Greg Jones

Sessions I and II

Monday, 9:30 a.m. (begins on March 1)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

This sequel to the fall 2020 course features a new range of theater classics, including a lively mix of lecture, video clips, live performance, and Q&A via Zoom. This course does not require prior enrollment in the fall class. Each week is devoted to exploring one of these milestone plays: Lysistrata, Hamlet, The Importance of Being Earnest, Our Town, A Streetcar Named Desire, The Visit, Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf and The Piano Lesson. In addition to exploring each play's unique literary qualities, the course will place each in its theatrical context, noting how it was produced, performed and why it is still relevant. No prior reading required, though students are sent a list of online sources for their own reference and research.

Greg Jones has appeared in more than 60 stage productions ranging from community theater to the professional stage under the stage name Greg Jones Ellis. Also an award-winning playwright, he holds a B.A. in drama from Catholic University and an M.A. in English literature from Salisbury University. Aside from his plays, his other published works include a scholarly examination of the influence of theatre on the monologue poems of Langston Hughes and profiles of playwrights Marsha Norman and Paul Zindel, as well as critical reviews of poetry.

AMERICAN DOCUMENTARY FILM, 1970–2020

Peter Lev

Session I

Wednesday, 1:00 p.m. (begins on March 3)

Fee: $65

This course will screen and discuss several examples of American documentary film: Spend It All, Wonder Woman, Sherman's March, The War Room, and The Central Park Five. Some of the directors are probably familiar—D. A. Pennebaker, Ken Burns—but others are not well-known. The course will cover cultural, personal, and political documentary. There will be some historical background, but the emphasis will be on documentary styles. Different approaches will be discussed, for example, attempts to be objective and invisible versus making the director a character of the film. Students will screen films out of class using Kanopy, a streaming database available via Towson University's Cook Library. Class time will be spent on lecture, film clips, and discussion.

Peter Lev is professor emeritus of electronic film and media at Towson University. He is the author or editor of six books of film history. His honors include the Academy Scholars Award from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, 2009; the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Literature/Film Association, 2009; and the Distinguished Service to the University Award from Towson University, 2010–2011.

BIG THANKS

to all Osher Volunteers who help to make Osher a success.

PHOTOGRAPHY IN WAR AND CONFLICT

Steve Dembo

Sessions I and II

Monday, 1 p.m. (begins on March 1)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

Roger Fenton, considered the first war photographer, went to Crimea in the 1850s to document the British at war. Due to the technology of the photographic processes of the time—it took up to a minute or more to take a picture—his images are quite benign. Mathew Brady and others fully documented the American Civil War and were only slightly better able to show its horrors. As the technology of warfare progressed, so did that of photography. WW I and WW II, Korea, Vietnam and conflicts were heavily photographed. Images of fighting action and the dead were no longer impossible to make. Robert Capa's images in Spain and on Omaha Beach are iconic, as are David Duncan and Larry Burrows' images from Vietnam. This course will present a brief introduction to the photography and photographers of war and conflict from the 19th century to today.

Steve Dembo received his M.F.A. from MICA. He is an adjunct professor at CCBC, where he teaches digital photography, digital imaging, and 2D design. His photographic work has been critically acclaimed, has garnered numerous competitive awards and accolades, and has appeared in national publications and juried exhibitions. He has taught several courses at the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at Towson University.

WOMEN IN WESTERN ART HISTORY

Michael Salcman, M.D.

Sessions I

Thursday, 9:30 a.m. (begins on March 4)

Fee: $65

Since the 1970s the advent of feminist theory and identity art has naturally led to an explosion of curatorial interest in the contribution of women to the history of art prior to the onset of modernism and contemporary art. The first lecture presents the historical context with a discussion of women artists in the Renaissance and subsequent periods into the 19th century. Who were the great women artists and why so few? The second lecture will discuss the major impact of women artists in the development of early modernism, including impressionism, German expressionism, Russian constructivism and abstraction, a period of famous artist couples. The third lecture is devoted to the contribution made by women to American abstract expressionism, minimalism, post-minimalism and pop art when women reach full autonomy. The final lecture brings us into the contemporary period of conceptualism, Earth art and identity art when women are often the major figures. We will learn that the arc of women's inclusion in Western art history is very similar to that of other disadvantaged groups such as Jews and African-Americans.

Michael Salcman, M.D. was chair of neurosurgery at the University of Maryland and president of the Contemporary Museum. A widely published poet, he is well known for his lectures on the history of modern and contemporary art in the Osher program at Towson University and other institutions. He has lectured on women and identity art in the 1980s, famous art couples and contemporary women artists for the Art Seminars Group, and has many examples of art by women in his personal collection.

GREAT ARTS OF INDIGENOUS MESOAMERICA: Olmec to the Spanish Conquest

Katharine Fernstrom

Sessions I and II

Tuesday, 9:30 a.m. (begins on March 2)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

This course focuses on Mesoamerican cultures and visual arts of the Olmec, Maya, Zapotec, and Aztec of Mexico and Guatemala. We will discuss the way art is used to communicate within and across cultural boundaries and in social, political, and religious contexts, including the 16th century Spanish colonial conquest. We will also consider how those communications relate to stylistic and aesthetic similarities and differences across Mesoamerica. The instructor will also discuss her ongoing research in human figures north of Mexico in relation to the 12th century Aztec migration from their unidentified northern homeland into the Valley of Mexico. Class discussions are welcome; for those who wish to read about these cultures, I recommend, but don't require, the book by Mary Ellen Miller, "The Art of Mesoamerica; From Olmec to Aztec." 6th Edition, Publisher: Thames & Hudson. (ISBN-13: 9780500204504/ISBN-10: 0500204500).

Katharine Fernstrom is an anthropologist and archaeologist teaching part-time at TU and MICA in anthropology and art history. She is also an appraiser specializing in Native American art made for the market (no antiquities), and was a member of the curatorial staff at the Baltimore Museum of Art. Her research looks at the way visual art is used to communicate within the context of economic transactions in Native American, Inuit, and Papua New Guinean cultures.

The sessions highlight Leonardo's work in architecture, military warfare concepts, anatomical studies, botanical studies, and inventions. This course will be rich in images that invite questions and discussion.

WHY WE LOVE CARTOONS: THE SEQUEL

Michael Ricigliano

Sessions II

Monday, 11:00 a.m. (begins on April 5)

Fee: $65

This course is a continuation of our Toon Appreciation Class from a year ago. Mike Ricigliano, a newspaper and magazine cartoonist, shares his insights and fondness for all things drawn, silly, satirical and funny—in a virtual classroom. As with our other group, there'll be opportunities for you to try your hand (and sharpie) on some fun things as well, if you'd like. We'll explore all variety of cartoons together, many that we didn't touch on in the initial class (and some too good NOT to repeat!) First timers welcome! Learn and laugh!

This course will be limited to 40 students.

Mike Ricigliano, "Ricig," is a freelance cartoonist who lives in Baltimore. He is best known for his sports cartoons that ran in the Baltimore Sun, LA Times, USA Today, and other newspapers. Ricig is the artist behind the famous "Bird" cartoons that ran on The Sun's front page for three years. He currently does editorial cartoons for the Howard County Times and sports cartoons for Press Box.

PRINCE OF THE PERVERSE: Edgar Allan Poe, Continued

Mikita Brottman

Sessions I and II

Thursday, 11:00 a.m. (begins on March 4)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

This is a continuation of "Prince of the Perverse: Edgar Allan Poe" from fall 2020. However, the course is open to everyone and no previous knowledge of Poe's work is required. In this eight-week course, we will cover a range of Poe's work, focusing mainly on his shorter stories and what he described as his tales of the "Grotesque and the Arabesque," including his Gothic tales of doubling and haunting, his tales of sensation, his philosophical speculations, as well as selected poems, philosophical writing, and criticism. We will also consider the work of his best-known illustrators. Each week, you'll have the option of reading the story or poem ahead of time before class. In class, there will be a lecture about that week's reading mixing in clips, images and, of course, answering your questions.

Mikita Brottman has a D.Phil. in English language and literature from Oxford University and had taught at a number of universities in Europe and the United States. For the last twenty years, she has been professor of English literature in the Department of Humanistic Studies at the Maryland Institute College of Art. She is also a certified psychoanalyst and a true crime writer.

FLY ON THE WALL

Jon Aaron

ZEN BUDDHISM

Edward Fotheringill

Session I

Tuesday, 3:30–4:45 p.m. (begins on March 2)

Class will not meet on March 16, and will end on March 30 instead

Fee: $65

In 45 years of teaching, Jon Aaron has developed a sense that every artist (author, painter, actor, poet, photographer) whose works he's taught in the classroom would love to be a fly on the wall so that they could hear how what meaning is made of their work within the context of our lives. In this course, you are invited to think boldly and to discuss openly as if Maya Angelou, William Shakespeare, Dorothea Lange, Aaron Douglas, or Ian McKellen were in the room. Explore with instructor short works—stories, poems, film clips, paintings, photographs, and political cartoons—as we discuss what we see, what we think, and how these provocative, creative pieces allow us to distill meaning that enriches our intellectual and spiritual lives. In our four meetings, we will connect our thoughts, memories, beliefs, and values to the work being discussed so that we can enjoy making meaning. Join us—THESE FLIES DON'T BITE!

Sessions I

Wednesday, 11:00 a.m. (begins on March 3)

Fee: $65

Zen Buddhism originated in China in the 6th century AD and is part of the Mahayana tradition of Buddhism. In this course, we will examine the rise of Zen in China, and its subsequent migration to Japan, other parts of Asia, and finally to the West. The major philosophical themes and principles of Zen—emptiness, impermanence, no-self, non-attachment, and enlightenment—will be fully explored, with special attention given to the teachings of two great Zen masters who came to America and were demonstrative in making Zen come alive for Westerners: the Japanese Master Shunryu Suzuki and the Korean Master Seung Sahn.

One of the attractive and stimulating features of the Zen tradition is its emphasis on enlightenment, or the personal experience of the true nature of things and the true nature of the self. Because this personal experience is rooted in the practice of meditation (Zazen), we will look closely at the technique of meditation and its experiential by-products. Note: there will be plenty of time reserved for open discussion in class.

Edward Fotheringill has taught philosophy at the college level for 40 years. He held the position of senior lecturer of philosophy at Towson University and Goucher College before ending his formal teaching career as adjunct professor of philosophy at the Maryland Institute College of Art.

THE HISTORY OF SPARROWS POINT

Bill Barry

Sessions I and II

Thursday, 11:00 a.m. (begins on March 4)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

The world's largest steel mill in Sparrows Point, MD, created an epic civilization from its founding in 1887 to its closing in 2012. The course will cover the history of the mills, the development of the town of Sparrows Point, the struggles for union, civil, and women's rights and will evaluate the reasons for the decline and closing of the mill. An important discussion will be the consequences of the closure for the workers and for the communities.

Bill Barry is the retired director of labor studies at the Community College of Baltimore County-Dundalk, where he taught classes at Sparrows Point, and is the author of two books on Sparrows Point.

THE HISTORY OF THE PRESIDENCY IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

Ed Berkowitz

Session I

DIGGING THE CLASSICAL WORLD: Archaeology of Greece and Rome

Bob Baer

Session I and II

Tuesday, 1:00 p.m. (begins on March 2)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

The civilizations of ancient Greece and Rome made major contributions to our western heritage. A great deal of the knowledge of these influential cultures is due to discoveries made through archaeology. This highly illustrated course will explore the history and significance of archaeological exploration of the Greek and Roman worlds. The work of pioneering archaeologists will be presented and analyzed. The course will cover archaeology from Greek Bronze Age, classical and Hellenistic periods, and the Roman Republic and Empire periods. Many of the most significant discoveries will be discussed and evaluated. The course will examine how these archaeological discoveries have contributed to the understanding of western culture.

A QUICK HISTORY OF HUMANS

John Spears

Session I and II

Wednesday, 11:00 a.m. (begins on March 3)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

Archaeology, anthropology, evolutionary biology and traditional history have all made incredible strides in understanding human nature over the last 50 years—to such an extent that it is now possible to outline the most important patterns of human history over the last 75,000 years. This will be a bird’s eye view, no doubt very different from any other history course you’ve ever taken. If you’re thrilled by long vistas, join us. We’ll do a whirlwind tour stretching from human origins in Africa to the present, all of which will help to understand today’s headlines and tomorrow’s crises. Lectures are extensively illustrated, and all readings are optional. Bring your curiosity. Dipping into one of these excellent survey texts would be useful: David Christian, Maps of Time: An Introduction to Big History; Wm H. McNeil and J. R. McNeil The Human Web: A Bird’s-Eye View of World History; Michael Cook, A Brief History of the Human Race.

John Spears received his Ph.D. in European history from Hopkins in 1978, after a 1972 master of arts in teaching, but taught only sporadically over a long and varied career, which he finished recently with 20 years as a consultant at Towson’s Regional Economic Studies Institute. But with retirement came the opportunity of re-firing his passion for history, especially the “big history” of the world now becoming more popular in the 21st century. He has now taught a version of “A Quick History of Humans” at several institutions in the area, including Towson in 2016, and keeps modifying and updating as new discoveries are made. He finds that the life experiences and available time of seniors make them a wonderful group to teach.

JEAN JAURÈS: MARTYR FOR PEACE

Bob Moore & Eric Stewart

Session I and II

Monday, 9:30 a.m. (begins on March 1)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

Jean Jaurès (1859–1914) was a French politician, historian, philosopher and journalist who devoted the last eight years of his life to prevent what became the Great War. The greatest orator of his time, Jaurès was an eloquent advocate for democracy, justice and peace. He and Emile Zola were the most influential spokesmen for Alfred Dreyfus, and he was responsible for the unification of the French Socialist Party in 1905. Jaurès was assassinated by a French nationalist on the eve of World War I, on July 31, 1914. He is buried in the Panthéon in Paris among the immortals of the French Republic. This course will trace the life of Jaurès in the pivotal period prior to World War I. You will meet a cast of characters along the way including Georges Clemenceau, Alfred Dreyfus, Ariside Briand, Henri Bergson, Raymond Poincaré and Karl Marx. We will discuss the legacy of Jaurès. The issues that he dealt with—democracy, justice, war and peace—are relevant to our current era. Jean Jaurès is not well known in America, but he deserves to be.

Bob Moore is a retired high school teacher. He taught French, Spanish, European and American history, and economics. Bob was a Peace Corps volunteer in Niger. He holds a bachelor’s degree from the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University and a master’s degree from the University of Wisconsin.

Eric Stewart co-presented the “Causes of the Great War for Osher” in 2015 and 2020, and “Jean Jaurès: Martyr for Peace” with Bob Moore. He taught the “Songs of Social Engagement” in the spring of 2016. A retired computer analyst at the Social Security Administration, he attended Georgetown University in the late 1960s.

TECHNOLOGY INNOVATIONS: Social Implications and Ethical Dilemmas

Guillermo Warley

ATOMIC THEORY FROM ANCIENT TIMES TO THE 20TH CENTURY

Greg Pevzner

Session I and II

Wednesdays, 9:30 a.m. (begins on March 3)

Fee: $130 ($65 for each session)

We will discuss the concepts of technology and innovation and frame some of the ethical dilemmas they present. We will look at the role of technology in the COVID-19 pandemic and examine technology's impact on society and its unintended consequences. The concepts of artificial intelligence (AI) and deep learning and their presence in our lives will be introduced in plain language, along with their challenges, limitations, and the ethical concerns they bring about. The basic principles, classification, and state-of-the-art technology behind autonomous vehicles (self-driving cars), unmanned aerial vehicles (drones) and assistive technology (for the elderly or people with physical or mental disabilities) will be examined with examples and discussion of legal and ethical considerations of each. Along with the class lectures, we will engage in interactive discussions with class attendees to solicit their views and opinions about the impact and potential of these technologies.

Guillermo Warley is an electrical engineer with undergraduate and graduate degrees in electronics and signal processing. He has more than 30 years of experience designing products that use some of the technologies discussed in the class. He is a Senior Life Member of the IEEE (Institute for Electrical and Electronics Engineers) and a member of the SSIT (Society for the Social Implications of Technology). He previously taught this class at the Osher Program at Shepherd University and has teaching experience at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in electrical engineering topics.

Session I

Tuesday, 11:00 a.m. (begins on March 2)

Fee: $65

This course traces the history of the idea of atoms from the time of its birth in ancient Greece to the early 20th century when most scientists accepted atoms as fundamental parts of all matter. If you are curious to know how a story about a race between Achilles and Tortoise led to the invention of atoms, why a founder of modern chemistry literally lost his head, or how a mischievous demon confused eminent Victorian scientists, this is a course for you. Along with the history of the subject, you will learn about remarkable people who developed this theory, such as Zeno and Democritus, Robert Boyle and Isaac Newton, John Priestley and Antoine Lavoisier, John Dalton, Ludwig Boltzmann and many others.

Greg Pevzner is a retired software engineer/manager. He was born and raised in St. Petersburg, Russia, where he received a graduate degree in physics from the Polytechnical University. After immigrating to the U.S., he also received an M.S. in computer science from Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. Prior to his retirement, he worked for over 30 years at AT&T Bell Laboratories in NJ, first as a software developer and later as a manager of an engineering team. Greg always had a keen interest in science, mathematics and history. He is eager to share his knowledge and enthusiasm of these subjects with Osher students.

GARDENING FOR BALTIMORE BUTTERFLIES

Robin Tress

WORLD POLLINATORS

Jody Johnson

Session II

Wednesday, 11:00 a.m. (begins on April 7)

Fee: $65

This course will break butterfly gardening into three steps. First, the gardener must be able to identify the butterflies that can be found in a local garden. We will cover 48 common butterflies with a focus on the larger, more easily identifiable ones, such as the swallowtails, but also the smaller, more challenging ones, such as the hairstreaks and skippers. Secondly, the gardener must understand the life cycle of the butterfly and supply the appropriate plants that are needed at each stage in that cycle: egg, larva (caterpillar), adult. We will cover the life cycle of the Eastern tiger swallowtail in detail, then each of the 48 butterflies and their plant requirements, emphasizing the native plants that have co-evolved with those butterflies. Finally, we will discuss a step that is often overlooked: how to provide habitat for the various butterflies that overwinter in Maryland. We will learn how less autumn clean-up can lead to both better butterfly habitat and better soil.

Robin Tress worked for 45 years in information technology before retiring from the Telecommunications Department of M&T Bank in 2012. She has a B.A. in German from Barnard and an M.S. in computer science from Johns Hopkins. She currently serves as a garden keeper at Irvine Nature Center and a docent at the Evergreen Museum and Library. She is a member of the Baltimore and Howard County bird clubs and edited the Baltimore club's electronic newsletter for four years. She taught "Butterflies of Maryland" in spring 2018.

Session I

Thursday, 1:00 p.m. (begins on March 4)

Fee: $65

This course is about birds, bees, slugs, flies, beetles, and small mammals, and the strategic plants they pollinate. We will explore the coevolution of flowering plants and their pollinators, the idiosyncrasies of many of these core species, and their ecosystem services; provisioning food, clean water, and recycled nutrients. Plant-pollinator interactions can be general or specialized. Some plants trick insects into pollination. The unusual social behavior and biology of the non-native honeybee has been one contributor to U.S. agricultural success. The loss of the mutualistic relationship between flowering plants and animal pollinators would alter the planet and could severely compromise mankind's current lifestyle. Animal behavior, botany, physics, chemistry, climate change, agricultural practice, psychology, economics, and politics will be discussed.

Dr. Johnson holds a Ph.D. (toxicology) and an M.S. (chemistry) from the University of Maryland. She established her company, Cullaborate, in 2014 to conduct field research on pollinator health issues. She is working with the Almond Board of California on fungicidal effects on bees, and with the USDA Bee Research Lab, Beltsville, MD on control of the parasitic mite, Varroa destructor. She teaches environmental science, physical science, pollinators, and sustainability to Stevenson and MICA students.
